

Welcome ole99
 Log out
 Edit your account
 Help

salon.com

Search

Go!

Salon The Web powered by

 YAHOO! SEARCH

Site Presented By

SALON
 PREMIUM

Monday, Oct 20, 2008

A&E Books Comics Environment & Science Life Movies News & Politics Open Salon Opinion Tech & Business

Log out

King Kaufman's Sports Daily

SITES I LIKE

Baseball Baseball America Baseball Analysts
Baseball Musings
Baseball Prospectus Baseball Reference
Baseball Think Factory The Book blog
Field of Schemes Hardball Times MLB.com
MLB Blackout Map Minor League Baseball
Retrosheet Sabernomics

Basketball 82 Games Basketball Reference
College Hoops Journal
DatabaseBasketball.com Hoops Hype
Inside Hoops NBADraft.net Slam Online
True Hoop Women's Hoops Blog

Curling The Curling News

Football College Football Statistics
Cold Hard Football Facts
College Football Talk Football Commentary
Football Outsiders NFL Beat Writer Blogs
NFL TV Distribution Maps Pro Football Reference
Pro Football Talk

Hockey Hockey Reference
Internet Hockey Database
Wired Hockey

Etc. and so on AOL Fanhouse Ballhype
The Big Lead Boxing News 24
Daily Soccer Blog Deadspin MMA Fighting
411 Mania Sports ProTrade Rotoworld
Soccerlinks The Sports Economist
Sports Law Blog Yardbarker

MOST POPULAR SALON STORIES

Most Read Active Letters Most E-mailed

- Turning Indiana blue
By Walter Shapiro
- "Everything matters to everybody"
By Beth Arnold
- Colin Powell condemns the ugliness of the Republican Party
By Glenn Greenwald
- Budget cutting? Take a hatchet to the war on drugs
By Joe Conason
- Smells like middle-aged spirit
By Darin Strauss

King Kaufman's Sports Daily: Like talking sports to the guy on the next barstool, if the guy on the next barstool were pretty smart and not drunk. king at salon.com, Facebook.

RECENT POSTS

ALCS delays, umps and Manny

How can MLB not have a backup ump ready? Would the Red Sox have made the playoffs with that lineup all year? The readers write.

Rays make World Series pitch

The Red Sox had all the momentum, but in a Game 7, it's even better to have a lights-out hurler. Tampa Bay had two.

NFL Week 7 picks

And the winner will be -- ooh, a last-second timeout to ice the prognosticator!

Previous posts

RSS Feed

MOST RECENT VIDEO

King Kaufman's Sports Daily

Video: Reaching for the bottom rung. A day at an open tryout for an independent pro baseball league.

Video archive

POSTS BY TOPIC

Baseball
Basketball
Books
Football
Hockey
Olympics
Soccer
Steroids, etc.

Tuesday, Oct. 21, 2008 04:00 PDT

Rays vs. Phillies? Who cares?

Let's go to the old imaginary mailbag for a question from our favorite dedicated, loyal, good-looking and completely fictional reader.

You should, imaginary person who asked that question. The World Series is exciting and new and different this year

Gerald Nanker: Why should I care about a World Series between the Tampa Bay Devil Rays, I mean Tampa Rays, I mean Tampa Bay Rays, and the Philadelphia Phillies? The Philadelphia Phillies? It's not really a World Series if teams like that are in it, is it?

I'm glad you asked that question, Gerald. It's uncanny how your letter leads me into the precise subject I wanted to talk about today. Also, I like how you string together four words in a row that start with the letter I. It isn't intentional, is it?

Yes, Gerald, there is a World Series if the Yankees and Red Sox aren't in it. You should care because you like baseball, or at least I'm assuming you do, which is a safe assumption because I made you out of straw. And baseball is about more than the Yankees and Red Sox. It's even about more than the Cubs, Cardinals, Dodgers, Mets and Braves.

As Maury Brown, whom I did not invent, points out on the Business of Baseball, Major League Baseball and its broadcast partners have fostered your attitude by tirelessly pimping the Yankees and Red Sox and, to a lesser extent, their aforementioned National League counterparts.

"Understandably, you have America hooked on the Red Sox and Yankees, and with that you get your precious regular-season ratings," Brown writes, addressing Fox, ESPN and TBS. "The problem is, if one or the other isn't in the World Series and ratings are low, there's a mountain of articles talking about how it's a matter of being a 'poor Series.'"

"That's a load of manure."

Indeed. There's nothing inherently more fascinating about the Red Sox or Yankees than about any other team unless one of them is your hometown nine, though this column acknowledges that counting New England as Boston's hometown, those are a couple of big towns.

But there are just as many compelling stories and interesting players — if not more of both — wearing Phillies and Rays rompers. You just haven't spent the last five or 12 years hanging out with them every October. In fact, that makes them more interesting. How many more times do you need to hear about Big Papi's legendary clubhouse presence or Terry Francona's mentschlekhkey or Jonathan Papelbon's odd combination of goofiness and cockiness?

There was a time when the Red Sox winning was exciting and new and

TV Video

SPORTS DAILY NEWSLETTER

To receive the Sports Daily Newsletter, send an e-mail to kingnewsletter@salon.com

SALON DAILY NEWSLETTER

Get Salon in your mailbox!

POSTS BY DATE

October 2008

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
			1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30	31

TABLE TALK

How are you parenting through the recession?
Could McCain pull ahead?

different. Here's a crazy thing you can ask your parents about, kids: There was a time when the Yankees winning was exciting and new and different. The 1996 team was actually a plucky, likable, underdog bunch that took the proud pinstripes to the World Series for the first time in 15 years, which is 105 years in Yankee years. Nobody called them the Evil Empire.

There isn't any particular reason why the Phillies, who own the largest unshared market in the major leagues, couldn't become an Evil Empire of their own over the next decade, though it isn't likely. It's never likely. But for now, they're still the sad-sack Phillies, the franchise that last year lost its 10,000th game, more than any other professional team in any sport, except for that obscure sport someone's about to start writing an e-mail about.

In the last generation or two the Phillies have been just another not-very-successful team, with a World Series win in 1980, losses in 1983 and '93 and some cycles of success and failure, most notably the Mike Schmidt-Steve Carlton high period of 1976-'83, when they won the N.L. East six times in eight years, and the low of the playoff drought that followed the '93 pennant and ended last year.

But before 1980 they'd been to the World Series only twice, in 1915 and 1950, losing both times. In between 1915 and 1980 the Red Sox went to five World Series, the Cubs went to six. The White Sox and Indians both went to three. For the bulk of the 20th century, then, all of the most famously futile franchises in the majors had more success than the Phillies, who still have just the one championship, 28 years ago. That's one fewer than the Florida Marlins, who have existed for a little more than half that time.

The Tampa Bay Rays haven't even existed for as long as the Marlins, but in their first 10 years they finished in last place every year except the year they finished next to last. Even the 1969 Mets had finished out of the cellar twice before, and they'd only been around for seven years.

How is any of this less compelling than the long wait for fans of the Cubs and Red Sox, Gerald?

And the Phillies play in a city where nobody else wins either. No Philly team has won a championship since the 76ers in 1983.

Chicago fans have had the Cubs and White Sox but also Michael Jordan, six titles by the Bulls and a Super Bowl win by the Bears. Boston fans had the long-suffering Red Sox but also an NBA Evil Empire, the Celtics, and one in the NFL, the Patriots. When Boston was finally, finally, finally able to celebrate a Red Sox championship in 2004, they first had to sweep aside litter from the Patriots' latest Super Bowl parade.

You should care about the Rays vs. the Phillies, Gerald, because the Red Sox returned home to Boston after Sunday's loss to the Rays in Florida and were greeted by ... nobody. No fans turned out at the airport to greet the heroic team that had given New England fans a thrill, almost pulling off a comeback that might have been greater than their famous 2004 rally to beat the Yankees.

There's some math you can do, after all, to show that when the Sox trailed the Rays 7-0 in Game 5, down three games to one, they had a lower probability of winning than when they took the field for Game 4 of the 2004 ALCS down three games to none.

This team roared back to win Game 5, then won a hard-fought Game 6 to force Sunday's decider. The Sox battled to the end, but lost with the tying run at the plate. And for that, Red Sox Nation, those noble lovers of the hometown team through eight decades of heartbreak and misery and poetry and doom, Red Sox nation said, "Don't come home from losing with loving on your mind."

Can you imagine the greeting that would have awaited the Rays if they'd flown home from Boston losers in the ALCS? There would have been a crowd at the airport with signs saying things like "Thank you 2008 Rays!"

Is that because the people of Tampa Bay are better people than the people

Salon | About Salon | Contact & Help | Corrections | Advertise in Salon | Salon Personals | Salon Jobs | Salon Mobile | Salon Newsletter | RSS Feeds

Salon Premium: Premium log in | What is Salon Premium?

A & E | Books | Comics | Community | Table Talk | & The WELL | Life | News & Politics | Opinion | Sports | Tech & Business | Letters

Investor Relations | Privacy Policy | Terms of Service

Copyright ©2008 Salon Media Group, Inc. Reproduction of material from any Salon pages without written permission is strictly prohibited. SALON® is registered in the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office as a trademark of Salon Media Group Inc.

of New England? Yes, yes it is.

Wait, no. It's not. And is it because they're better baseball fans than those Northerners? Certainly history would tell us otherwise. It's because Rays fans aren't used to winning. Shoot, they aren't even used to being Rays fans. But the club put a charge in them. The Rays, like the Phillies, are exciting and new and different.

And besides, their uniforms aren't hideous anymore.

Not a World Series without the Yankees or Red Sox? It's not like the usual suspects have been serving up exciting Series lately. The last one that went beyond five games was in 2003. Let the Rays and Phillies put a charge into you too.

– King Kaufman

Posted in: Baseball

7 comments

Post a comment

Share

Print

CURRENTLY IN KING KAUFMAN'S SPORTS DAILY

Rays vs. Phillies? Who cares?

You should, imaginary person who asked that question. The World Series is exciting and new and different this year.

Tuesday, Oct 21, 2008 14:00 EDT

ALCS delays, umps and Manny

How can MLB not have a backup ump ready? Would the Red Sox have made the playoffs with that lineup all year? The readers write.

Monday, Oct 20, 2008 19:35 EDT

Rays make World Series pitch

The Red Sox had all the momentum, but in a Game 7, it's even better to have a lights-out hurler. Tampa Bay had two.

Monday, Oct 20, 2008 14:00 EDT

NFL Week 7 picks

And the winner will be -- ooh, a last-second timeout to ice the prognosticator!

Friday, Oct 17, 2008 22:05 EDT